Dr. Lutz is a Licensed Marriage and Family Therapist, New Jersey whose specialty has been children and youth. His training includes a three year clinical residence at the Blanton-Peale Graduate Institute, New York; a Doctorate in Adolescent Development, Andover-Newton Theological School; and a Post-Doctoral Fellowship in Family Life at the Erickson Center, Harvard Medical School.

He was the founder and Executive Director of the Montclair Counseling Center from 1972 until 2000. His practice included working with adults, youth, and children including serving as a consultant to four nursery schools and one private school. From 2003 to the present he has been Minister of Pastoral Care at Marble Collegiate Church where he works with youth, children, adults, and families.

He and Mrs. Lutz have two married sons and seven grandchildren. He makes the point that he has learned more about kids from his own children and grandchildren than from his academic training. He has learned that it is important to listen, to love, and to be present. We can learn a lot from our kids.
